Casements Camera Club-Find us on:

Greetings CCC members. I am starting this month's newsletter on an entirely different note. I realize that I had one of my images in the header last month and this month another, and all by its self. No, I am not showcasing my photography nor exercising my rights as the editor. I am being subjective and not objective this month, as I wish to express what's on my heart. I am a native Floridian and very proud of my "home grown" blood. With that said, my heart is very saddened having endured one of the most catastrophic storms in Florida's history (and I've been through many). So let me ask you, how many of y'all have numerous photos on your phones and cameras of all of the destruction you have seen from this storm? The media and social media are inundated with these types of images. So where are the photos of all of the heroes after the storm? Photos of Daytona Beach police officers carrying rescued children in their arms during the storm??? Where are the photos of neighbors sharing their generators with fellow neighbors enabling them to charge their phones or bring over their coffee pots sharing a fresh cup of coffee? Where are the photos of volunteers helping with clean up or distributing food, clothing and water to the storm battered victims? So, here's mine, a tribute to the line workers who worked long, wet and hot hours restoring our most cherished (taken for granted) luxury, electricity. Over 21000 line workers were deployed over this storm battered state, and I just wanted to pay tribute to them and all of the other unsung heroes after the storm!!!!!!!!!!!! On to the news.

RECAP---There is no recap!!!!!! Hurricane Ian shut us down last month soooooo, last month's meeting itinerary has be moved forward to this month's meeting.

October 27 Meeting---The meeting will be held in the Casements Gallery at 7:00 pm. This meeting will entail the Give Away and a donation box will be placed in the Casements so members may donate any photography item they wish to "give away". The meeting will also be open to discussion about the future of the CCC, so members attending the meeting are asked to bring some suggestions (e.g.--meeting start time). Ans will also be updating the group about next year's exhibit (Urban Florida) in the Southeast Museum of Photography.

Gala (Christmas) Deadline----Members have until October 28 to submit their images to Ans for this showcase.

I vented in the header so now I'll showcase some "positive" storm images.

Congratulations Skip Lowery—Skip's photos will be on display in the east display case at the entrance of the Ormond Beach Library for the entire month of October.

On her recent visit to the Southeast Museum of Photography, Ans saw this display, so here's to passing it on to the club:

Currently on display in the Southeast Museum of Photography, Days of Punk, with images by Michael Grecco. This exhibit depicts the “gritty nightclub and music scene” of the late 70's and into the early 90's. The exhibit will be on display in the museum until December 17.

That pretty much sums it up this month with this “light with news” newsletter. Hopefully y'all and your families fared well after the storm. Be safe and enjoy our “change in season” and happy shooting!!!!!!!!!!!!

Until_____
