Welcome to July!

First, a big Thank You to Stan for doing the newsletter last month. I love your style and miss the personal sense you bring.

This month's field trip turned out to be enormous fun with Ans' suggested focus on multiple exposures and/or intentional camera movement. Although I was initially thinking... hmm. I totally adored crashing different images together to see what happens. I think it worked particularly well in the museum because there were so many images to use. It would also be fun to see where else multiple exposure would work. Let's get creative.

Finally, it's also fun to see what photographers around the world are doing, so here's a bit of a round up.

Hope everyone is having a good summer. See you next month.

Club News

The July Assignment

The big news is our July assignment. Each year we have a new challenge to encourage our artistic development. This year it's translating an idiom into a creative image. Ans has sent some suggestions but feel free to create an image that depicts something that is not on the list. The membership will vote on the submissions and the winner can get a free membership for 2026 (a $ 40 value).

Please enter your translated idioms on or before July 23. Send the images, 10" on the long side, at 100ppi to Ans.

This Month's Meeting

In the meeting on July 24 we will vote on the images from the July assignment. Ans will also have some field trip slide shows. It will be fun to share our photos and see what everyone is doing.

Last Month's Meeting

Anna Cary spoke of post-processing with Adobe Camera Raw and was very passionate and informative, and showed how she did the post-processing. The information is also applicable for those using Lightroom. She also noted that if she has any questions about her post-processing she asks ChatGPT and found that AI can be very helpful.

Ans will be happy to send Anna's presentation information to anyone who requests it.

July Field Trip

This month we braved the rain to visit Cici and Hyatt Brown Museum of Art on the grounds of the Museum of Arts and Sciences (MOAS). With Ans suggested focus on techniques such as multiple exposure and intentional camera movement, the trip was an exercise in creativity and fun.

A side note: The museum wouldn't allow a tripod so Ans photoshopped herself into the picture. Well done!
